National Workshop On Research Methodology & Statistics

Aim:

At the end of workshop, the participants are able to implement the basics of research methodology and statistics in nursing.

Objectives:

The Workshop will enable the participants to:

- Describe the basic elements of research in nursing.
- Explain in-depth concept of research process and various research designs.
- Identify the appropriate implementation of various statistical analysis in nursing research.
- Explain the importance of dissemination of research findings.

Introduction:

Research is a robust technique that sparks novel ideas and facts of a researcher to draw novel conclusions about a topic of interest. It is the most valuable tool to understand the depth of a problem and build on to create knowledge that is reliable and authentic.

Nursing research has a tremendous influence on current and professional nursing practice, thus rendering it an essential component of the educational process. It focuses on developing and promoting high levels of standards in the areas such as high quality management of patients during long term cases, developing advancements that aid patients in recovery, developing standards in prevention of disease in community and promotion of healthy life styles. Introducing the basics of research among nursing students enhances their ability to uncover the knowledge of clinical practice and education in different areas of interest and as an adjunct to the profession.
